

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A color converting device converts input CMYK data into output color data in a predetermined different format. The color converting device comprises a contrast emphasizing unit emphasizing a contrast of the output color data corresponding to the CMYK data representing a black-character color more than a contrast of the output color data corresponding to the CMYK data representing a non-black-character color.

10067417-020702